INVISIBLE NO MORE: STUDY GUIDE

TIMELINE OF VIOLENCE & RESISTANCE

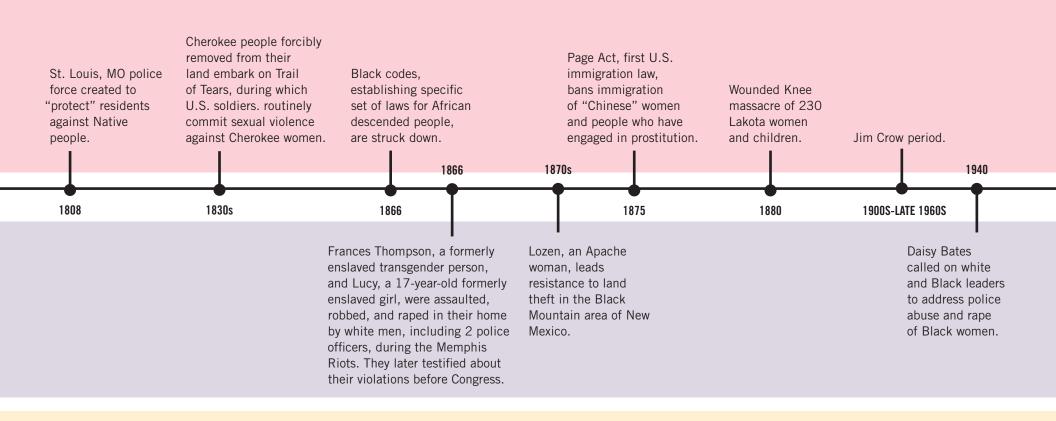

Invisible No More sketches the history of state violence against Indigenous, Black, and immigrant women of color in the United States from 1492 to the present. Of course, there is a lot that is missing from both the book and the timeline below — and much that we will never know.

Print this document out on four pages, and tape them together along dotted lines to make the timeline, then post it where everyone can see it.

Use markers or post-it notes to fill in events on the timelines of violence, resistance, and of your personal or collective history based on your own experiences, the history of your communities, and what is happening right now.

Be sure to place yourself/selves on the timeline – when and how did you enter this conversation? What are significant points in time for your understanding of the issues explored in the book? Make sure you include moments of resistance, of commemoration, and of healing.

Once you have added to the timeline, reflect on what is there – what trends do you see over time? What has changed? What remains the same? Where and how did things shift? What kinds of resistance made a difference?
